

DIRECTV and DGO will broadcast all 104 matches of the 2026 FIFA World Cup

The sports signal, available on DIRECTV and the streaming platform DGO, will provide for the entire region the best coverage of the World Cup, CONMEBOL Sudamericana, Spain's LaLiga and other disciplines such as tennis with the Davis Cup, basketball with FIBA and Euroleague highlights, and the main international cycling circuits

Buenos Aires, January 6, 2026 – DSPORTS announced its programming for 2026, highlighting the broadcasting of the 104 matches of the FIFA World Cup to be played in the United States, Mexico and Canada, as well as the most extensive coverage of the main events of the most important sports disciplines.

The leading sports broadcasting signal, available on DIRECTV's satellite television grid and the DGO streaming platform, has become a recognized trademark in live broadcasting and is recognized for providing the most extensive coverage in Argentina, Chile, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Uruguay.

The entire FIFA World Cup on DSPORTS

In 2026, DIRECTV will consolidate its position as the World Cup's home with the most extensive coverage provided by the DSPORTS signal, which will include the live broadcasting of all 104 matches of the new edition of the FIFA World Cup to be played from June 11 to July 19.

In addition, the signal will feature its well-known special coverage with journalistic teams dedicated to following the South American teams that will participate in the FIFA tournament. All content will be available on DIRECTV's network and on DGO, which allows access to content from a Smart TV and from any mobile device such as a cell phone.

Another year with the best in sports

As soccer is the most popular sport in Latin America, DIRECTV and DGO will offer all the coverage of the main competitions in the region with exclusive content through DSPORTS.

Likewise, the whole CONMEBOL Sudamericana cup, with exclusive matches through the sports signal, will be available to follow the participation of River, Racing and San Lorenzo representing Argentina; Millonarios and Atlético Nacional, from Colombia, and Universidad de Chile, among other great South American teams.

In addition, DIRECTV and DGO's sports offering will be complemented with the usual coverage of Spain's LaLiga, Copa do Brasil, Davis Cup, the best FIBA basketball, Euroleague, Padel, Rugby and the highlights of the world cycling circuit.

In 2026, DIRECTV will also provide the most complete coverage of soccer in Uruguay, after acquiring the broadcasting rights from the Uruguayan Football Association (AUF, for its acronym in Spanish) for the Uruguayan Primera Division and the main promotion categories.

In this way, the company will be the main sports broadcasting ecosystem in the region with coverage of events that connect all subscribers. DIRECTV is synonymous with sports.
